Grand Jury Takes Up Looting of Collateral Loan Company

SCUDDER CASE GOES TO JURY

FALL RIVER, Dec. 3.—Brandishing the death weapon before the Jury Attorney Harold F. Hathway, counsel for Mrs. Mabel A. Scudder, who shot and killed her brother-in-law, Edgar C. Scudder, in her apartment on April 13, caused a sensation in Fall River Superior Court today when he declared in his final argument that Mrs. Scudder and not the murdered man was the real victim of the tragedy.

Mrs. Scudder is charged with second degree murder. District Attorney John T. Kenney delivered the final argument for the prosecution after which Judge Dubuque charged the jury. It is expected that a verdict will be returned by nightfall.

Mrs. Scudder was calm and composed as the end of her trial drew near. She was a trifle more pale, but confident of acquittal. She was dressed as she was the first day of the trial. Mrs. Elizabeth Juch, mother of Mrs. Scudder, was also in the courtroom.

DECLARES HER JUSTIFIED.

In his closing argument Attorney Hathaway declared Mrs. Scudder was justified in slaying Scudder. He scored the character of the victim

GREAT ARTILLERY BATTLE FOUGHT IN FLANDERS

Allies Cut More Dykes, Extending Floods South of Dixmude.

Wednesday, in the direction of Ypres and Dixmude. According to the same advices, fresh streams of German wounded are pouring through Bruges and Ghent. German troops now lie in unbroken line all along the Belgian coast past Mariakerke, Knocke and Zeebrugge. The German trenches are supported by long range guns which point to sea and endless platoons of machine guns.

The allies have resumed dyke cutting operations in West Flanders and the floods now extend south of Dixmude, the French official statement says. The allies have made a slight advance in the Argonne, where attacks of the Germans have been repulsed.

As the result of bombardment with new heavy guns recently rushed to the West Flanders front, Paris fears that the Germans have been able to make some progress at Dixmude. There is ground for the belief that the invaders have regained their foothold on the western bank of the Yser at this point. Fresh British troops are being rushed to reinforce the allies' lines west of Dixmude, particularly in the region of Lamperisse, which is under a terrific fire from the gigantic German howitzers.

PORTUGAL READY TO FIGHT.

Official announcement was made to the Portuguese Chamber of Deputies by Premier Machado today that mobilization of the Portuguese army has been begun. Four expeditions have been prepared for service in Africa, one division has been mobilized in Africa, and one division has been mobilized "for service wherever it is needed."

The Russian army, bringing up new pressure in the form of fresh troops, has forced the Germans to abandon their offensive northwest of Lowicz. Petrograd officially announces today, and the great battle in Poland once more assumes an aspect favorable to Russian arms.

North of Lodz, it is announced, the Germans have made a number of furious attacks upon Russian positions, all of which have been repulsed, and the Germans are falling back to the frontier with the Russians in close pursuit.

No official announcement has yet been made that General Rennenkampf, whose tardy arrival with his army defeated Grand Duke Nicholas' encircling movement, has been superseded in his command.

Czar Nicholas is now at the front with his troops, and in Petrograd military circles it is believed that further details of Russian victories may soon be forthcoming.

The surrender of Przemysl is imminent, according to an unofficial report from the Russian capital. The condition of the Austrian garrison is said to be desperate.

FALLING BACK FROM CRACOW.

Petrograd reports officially that the Austrians defending the approaches to Cracow have been defeated and are falling back in great disorder. The Russian troops are now concentrating eight miles from the city and are preparing for a vigorous attack on that stronghold.

The Petrograd correspondent of the London Times points out that by retaking Strykow the Russians have regained possession of the Lodz-Warsaw Railway. He adds:

"There is no perceptible alteration in the relative position of the opposing armies in Poland, and the Germans apparently still maintain their hold on the central region west of Lowicz. The situation remains extremely interesting and hazardous.

"The Russians are making progress in the neighborhood of Cracow. They are now within eight miles of the city."

REPORT AUSTRIA FOR PEACE.

Reports have reached the Russian capital that Austria is desirous of quitting the war by arranging a separate peace with Russia. These reports are entirely unofficial and unconfirmed, but are accompanied by interesting details as to possible terms. Commenting on them, the Bourse Gazette of Petrograd, an organ close to the Russian government, says:

"The war will be fought to a finish. Austria cannot hope to effect a separate peace with Russia. Not until she is utterly crushed can Austria hope to inaugurate any peace movement with Russia.

"Regarding rumors that Austria is desirous of concluding a separate peace with Russia by agreeing to cede to that country Bosnia and Herzegovina, it can be stated they will be refused.

"Russia's purpose is to effect a liberation of the Slavs. The Austrian empire is so deeply rooted that no diplomat would consent to an agreement until the Austrian resources are completely exhausted.

"Russian diplomats would never consent to any overtures looking to a separate agreement with Austria-Hungary or Hungary alone.

"The war must go on. Austria must be crushed. Then, and then alone, can she hope for any movement looking toward peace."

GERMAN RIOT DENIGLAND.

News of a second outbreak in German concentration camps in England was made public day in dispatches from London. It carred on Wednesday, in the Lancaster camp for hostile aliens, whre 2,000 Germans are interned. Abt 1,000 prisoners, armed with pieces of iron and sticks, charged the guard in an attempt to break out, but wre driven back. The guards then rushe the rioters with fixed bayonets, wnding a number of them. The ingleaders were arrested.

FRENCH TO LEAIN FLANDERS

It is reported frm Paris that the fighting in West Flanders has assumed such a critical aspect that Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces, has been sent ther to take command in person.

Never in the hstory of warfare has there been massed along the battle front such masses of powerful artillery as the Germans have concentrated there to support the lines from Ostend to the French border. It is estimated that there are at least 750,000 German soldiers holding the line from Ostend to Ypres.

Every section of the 90-mile battle line now presents a scene of activity. At some points infantry are engaged in attack and counter attack and at others the fightings being carried on by artillery alon. Every development still supports the theory that the allies are in the 1st stages of a general offensive avement. Their attacks all along the line enable them to determine the weak places and to ascertain what extent the German lines are been strengthened.

A deadlock has develed in the Woevre district. At some points the trenches are only 35 to 40 yards apart.

Along the Aisne the Frch, British and Turcos are making heavy sacrifices to dislodge the Germans from some of the positions they have occupied since the great batle began eighty days ago.

From Arras to Armentres the Germans never give the lench and British any rest. When the allies' trenches are not being seized the Germans are making fruitry attacks.

A contingent of Ausulian and New Zealand troops has ben landed in Egypt to fight the Turs.

SEES THREE YEARS OFWAR

Earl Kitchener, the Brtish War Minister, again expresses he conviction that the war will continue three years. "It will end," he sys, "only when Germany is thoroughly defeated, not before—defeated o land and on sea. That the allies thl win is certain. That for us to win will require a minimum period of three years I think probable. It might last longer—this war might. It might end sooner. It can end in only one way."

The Montenegrin movement announces that the Austrians have concentrated their efforts between Vishgrad and Priboj during the past five days in an attempt to cut off the Montenegrin army from the Servians, but have failed. The Austrian losses in this fighting are given as 600 killed and wounded, the Montenegrin losses at 33.

Belgrade, capital of Servia until the seat of government was removed to Nish, has fallen to the Austrians, after about four months' bombardment, the announcement coming to Emperor Francis Joseph, reported near death, on the sixty-sixth anniversary of his reign.

PUTS WAR BLAME ON ENGLAND

In opening the special sitting of the Reichstag, at which a new war credit of $1,250,000,000 was voted, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German chancellor, placed the responsibility of the war at the door of Great Britain.

"It is evident to us who is responsible for this greatest of all wars," he said. "The apparent responsibility falls on those in Russia who ordered and executed the mobilization of the Russian army; the real responsibility falls on the British government. The cabinet at London could have made the war impossible if it had declared at St. Petersburg that England would not allow a continental war to develop from the Austro-Servian conflict.

RUSSIA DEAF TO PEACE WITH AUSTRIA UNTIL FOE IS CRUSHED

PETROGRAD, Dec. 2.—The war will be fought to a finish. Austria cannot hope to effect a separate peace with Russia. The Bourse Gazette todays says:

"Regarding rumors that Austria is desirous of concluding a separate peace with Russia by agreeing to cede Galicia to her enemy and allow Servia access to the Adriatic and also cede to that country Bosnia and Herzegovina, it can be stated they will be refused.

"Russia's purpose is to effect a liberation of the Slavs. The Austrian empire is so deeply rooted that no diplomat would consent to an agreement until the Austrian resources are completely exhausted.

"Russian diplomats would never consent to any overtures looking to a separate agreement with Austria-Hungary or Hungary alone.

"The war must go on. Austria must be crushed. Then, and then alone, can she hope for any movement looking toward peace."

Shell Lands on Supper Table

BORDEAUX, Dec. 3.—A Bordelaise reservist back from the front had a marvelous escape at Ramscapelle. He and five comrades received a parcel from home, which included a chicken already roasted. They sat down in the field for supper, and had just begun when what Tommy Atkins calls a "Jack Johnson" shell landed on the supper table. Five men were blown to pieces, and the sixth was buried. He dug his way out of the earth heap without assistance, but his nerves were a little upset and he was invalided home.

STAGE SET FOR MAINE DEATH TRIAL

One Hundred Talesmen Called for Jury Duty in Sullivan Mystery.

HOULTON, Me., Dec. 3—The stage is set today for the Mildred Sullivan death trial and the closing legal steps in the solution of the fate of the seventeen-year-old schoolgirl which mystified all New England for more than two months.

Interest in the trial is unprecedented. The town is thronged and the proceedings will be closely followed from all over New England.

Scores of women and girls are eager to be among those for whom room can be found when Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, Alice Pellitier, his sweetheart, and the others accused are brought to the bar.

Just when the names of the prisoners will be called by the clerk of the Supreme Court is in doubt, but the first moves in the case will be made today.

One hundred veniremen will report today when court is opened and from their number an effort will be made to select the jury. About seventy-five witnesses are ready to answer the call of prosecution or defense.

Should the death trial now occupying the court be finished by tonight, as now it appears it will, the Mildred Sullivan trial will be in full swing tomorrow. By Saturday, in any event, the drama which has absorbed the entire State, will be unfolded.

The State is ready to proceed at this moment.

Counsel for the defence hurried to Presque Isle after being granted an extension of time, and began investigation of a phase of the tragedy that is said to promise sensational developments. They were led by the chief fighter in their camp, Attorney Ransford W. Shaw.

Miss Michaud, whose confession led to the finding of the school girl's body in a woodland grave, where it had been hidden sixty-five days, will take the witness stand as the star witness for the State against Dr. Lionel E. Dudley and Alice Pellitier. It is declared she never will be tried as a principal.

There is every indication that after she testifies against Dr. Dudley and Alice Pellitier, and the other cases have been passed upon, Miss Michaud may plead to a reduced charge, and either get a light sentence or have her case placed on file, as a reward for solving the mystery.

VENIREMEN REPORT.

The report of Medical Examiners Boone, of Presque Isle and Jackson of Houlton, just filed, shows that the State's medical experts consider the schoolgirl was butchered.

Many supposed Dr. Dudley, Alice Pellitier, Miss Michaud and Ambrose Bridge, sweetheart of the seventeen-year-old victim, would be tried together, but they will be tried in cases of Dr. Dudley and Miss Pellitier will be called first.

This plan and the attitude of the State officials indicates the prosecution's proceeding against the surgeon and his sweetheart as the real conspirators. This explains why the arraignment of Miss Michaud and Ambrose Bridge has been put off without date.

Katherine Michaud is charged with first degree murder and illegal surgery, and Bridge is accused of being an accomplice. Dr. Dudley and Alice Pellitier are charged with illegal surgery in addition to murder, and there is a third bill against the Pellitier girl, charging that she was an accessory in trying to conceal and harbor Dr. Dudley in order to enable him to evade arrest and escape punishment."

Ambrose Bridge will also figure as a big witness for the State. He was the first to turn State's evidence. The lawyers for Dr. Dudley and Miss Pellitier will resent any attempt on the part of the State to shield Miss Michaud and Bridge, and will centre their fire on the two belligerent defendants.

A prominent official said today:

"Katie Michaud will go through for the State to the last notch. She is going to tell all she knows on the witness stand. Her story is thrilling. Just wait for the trial disclosures. Wait till Katie Michaud takes the stand."

The defence claim they have a battery of surprises. They will throw the searchlight on the records of Katie Michaud and Ambrose Bridge.

Responding to the original summonses that ordered them to report at the courthouse today, 100 special veniremen and scores of witnesses flocked to Houlton. In all, the State has mustered forty witnesses or more and the defence is expected to bring the total to seventy-five.

MAY LAST TWO WEEKS.

The trial promises to last two weeks. Much trouble is looked for in drafting a jury because of the intense interest in the case.

It has become no easy problem to feed and shelter this big family which has gathered from distant towns and hamlets to do jury service or testify. Every hotel and lodging house is full. Rooms are at a premium.

The fourteen Houlton citizens drawn are: George H. Taber, Frank P. Berry, Leith S. Black, W. S. Bell, Harry R. Burleigh, relative of one of the lawyers for Dr. Dudley; Lee W. Ervin, Harry W. Hallett, E. J. Hawkes, O. A. Hodgins, Benjamin T. Hussey, Fred R. Kidder, Charles G. Lauf, John K. Palmer, Spurgeon L. Purington.

DR. DUDLEY CALM.

Dr. Dudley is patiently waiting for the trial to formally open. He spent the day in calm waiting. He was very carefully dressed, in clothes so dark that they gave a ministerial air to his person. The hours of daylight were passed in reading.

Since his imprisonment on November 7, the day following the confession of Kate Michaud, the nurse alleged to have been associated with him in the care of Mildred Sullivan, the accused has spent much time in the perusal of medical works and journals, and other serious publications.

His physical condition has improved in jail. Though when first imprisoned he talked more or less freely of his case, he now declines to utter a word about it. His attitude is that of a man who does not anticipate conviction.

While an analysis of the contents of Mildred Sullivan's stomach has undoubtedly been made, probably at Bowdoin College, its result is known only to the Attorney General, Scott Wilson of Portland, who will try the case against Dr. Dudley, County Attorney Bernard Archibald and a few others.

NO POISON MENTIONED.

What effect it, if at all, will have little bearing on the charges against Dr. Dudley as set forth in the indictments, since neither of the two indictments makes the slightest reference to the use of poisons.

Minor parts will be played in the trial, as witnesses, most probably, by Elva Pellitier, aged twenty-four, a sister of Alice; Perley Pellitier, aged seventeen, a brother, and Fred Pellitier, her father; Everett Libby of Presque Isle, who boarded at the Pellitier house; Deputy Sheriff George Graves of Fort Fairfield, who is said to have seen an auto on a certain road on the night Mildred Sullivan's body was probably buried; Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan, the girl's parents, besides various employes of the county, medical men who examined the girl's stomach, and possibly experts on poisons.

New and hitherto unpublished photograph of Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, one of the defendants accused of the death of Mildred Sullivan.

GARDNER 'PERIL' PLEA TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Representative Gardner of Massachusetts today made public his first letter to President Wilson regarding national defence. It read in part:

"I beg respectfully to invite your attention to the fact that I have introduced a resolution in Congress asking for a commission to inquire into the adequacy of our army and navy to protect this country.

"It is with the very deepest concern that I learn from the press that you are inclined to look with disfavor on my proposal.

"If it is a fact, I venture to hope that you will on future reflection see reason to reconsider this position.

"I am sure that your good judgment will compel action when once you are in possession of the facts. In addition the secretaries and assistant secretaries of war and navy, I have invited a number of well informed army and navy officers to be present as witnesses at the hearing to become later. I respectfully request that they be authorized to testify and that no restrictive instructions shall be issued which might hamper in giving information on any military question with which they are familiar."

CHANCE TO GET GERMAN TRADE

Boston and New England, it is believed, will have a chance to get a large share of the German trade with South America. Now that the Panama Canal is open for business there is a short all-water route to the west coast of the lower half of this hemisphere and manufactures and other products should be landed from Boston at lower freight rates than shipments from Europe. This means development of Boston's ocean trade as well as an enlarged market for manufacturers all over New England.

A Latin-American trade conference will be held in this city within a few weeks under the auspices of the New Haven road. It is announced that President Elliot will take a personal interest in it. There will be discussion as to how this part of the country can take advantage of the Panama canal and the opportunities presented by the war in Europe.

SEA CLOSED TO GERMANS.

For many years Germans have been building up a market for their manufactures in South America. Now British ships have closed the sea to their freighters and products and South Americans must depend upon England and the United States for supplies. The war has hampered the industrial activity of England, to a greater extent, perhaps, than British statesmen are willing the world should know.

It is conceded both here and abroad that New Englanders never before had such an opportunity to build up a great and permanent trade in South America. The advantage Europeans have had over Americans in competition for South American trade is financial facilities. They have been ready always to give long credit and have established banking branches where there has been a chance to sell goods.

American bankers are going to have South American branches, too, and the probability is that in the future Latin-Americans will look more to the United States than to Europe for financiering.

AMERICANS INACTIVE.

But if this proves true it will be because of a great increase in the amount of American goods sold in South America. Trade statistics indicate that manufacturers in this country have previously made little effort to find a market in sister republics to the south of the Caribbean.

Rabbi Going to War With British Army

LONDON, Dec. 3.—British Jewry is justifiably proud of the response made by its members to the call to arms since the outbreak of the war. There are about 5,000 Jews in the regular army today. The Rev. Michael Adler, Jewish chaplain to the forces, goes to the front with the second draft soon. This is the first time in history that a Jewish chaplain has accompanied British troops in the field. No fewer than 450 Jews hold commissions in the army and navy.

FLEETS IN PERIL IN GREAT GALE

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The great fleet of British and French warships in the English Channel, Dover Straits and the western fringe of the North Sea has been caught in a fierce gale. It is feared that extensive damage will result as the ships off the Belgian coast have no haven. A number of small craft are missing. The storm is also raging off the west coast of Scotland, where many British dreadnoughts are stationed.

The Dutch steamer Hawaan was driven ashore near Ijeal. She was in collision in the Downs with the Dutch steamer Niobe, of Amsterdam. The Niobe went ashore near North Deal.

Plague Holds Up Big Shipment of Horses

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 3.—Shipment of 20,000 horses bought in the United States for use of the allies in France has been held up by the public health authorities for fear that the foot and mouth disease may be brought into this country in that way. The horses were to have been shipped over the Canadian Pacific Railway from the West to Montreal.

BERLIN SILENT ON WAR OPERATIONS

By FREDERICK WERSER,
Staff Correspondent of the American.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—(via Wireless.)—The War Office was silent today on operations in both theatres of war. It was stated that nothing of importance had transpired.

Emperor William held a conference with Archduke Frederick, the Austrian commander, at Breslau yesterday, when he complimented the Austrian troops upon their achievements. Afterwards the Kaiser visited the military hospitals and spoke words of encouragement to many of the wounded.

Belief was expressed in government circles that the voting of $1,-250,000,000 war credits by the Reichstag will have an excellent effect upon the armies. The Reichstag will not meet again until March 2.

Belgian Queen Again at Front

WESTERN FLANDERS, Dec. 3.—The London Mail correspondent reports seeing the pathetic but inspiring sight of the homecoming of the Queen of the Belgians.

She came from England through France, and was received at the French port where she landed by French and Belgian officers. From there the party journeyed to the Belgian headquarters at the front in autos.

Germans Bagging Belgian King's Game

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 3.—German officers in Brussels are having a good time. They are constantly organizing shooting parties for chasing the Belgian king's game on his majesty's estate at Tervueren.

The German authorities estimate that in a few weeks it will be impossible to supply gas, even for lighting purposes, as the stock of coal is low. Food generally is not scarce. The King of Saxony was in Malines recently.

Haakon Inspects Norway's Defences

CHRISTIANA, Dec. 3.—King Haakon of Norway began a cruise along the Norwegian coast on the battleship Harald Haarfagre today to inspect the defences.

GUTIERREZ NOW IN MEXICO CITY

JUAREZ, Mexico, Dec. 3.—General Eulalio Gutierrez, who was elected provisional president of Mexico by the Aguas Calientes peace convention, has entered Mexico City and established himself in the National Palace according to information received here today from the South. Mexico City is quiet, the city being policed by soldiers of General Villa's convention army.

An official proclamation has been issued from the national executive. All persons hostile to the Gutierrez government are termed traitors.

It is learned for the first time that when Villista soldiers under Raoul Madero captured Pachuca, General Carranza had a narrow escape from capture. Carranza fled with such precipitate haste that he left his sword and many valuable personal papers behind.

Prince Joachim Gets New Command

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Prince Joachim, son of the Kaiser, whose wound has healed, has returned to the theatre of war. He has been awarded the Iron Cross of first class and appointed staff commander of the eastern forces.

WAR SIDELIGHTS.

Twenty of the chief cooks of leading London restaurants resigned their jobs and are now at the front, cooking for the soldiers in the trenches.

The death of Admiral Mahan was given more space in the London papers than that of any individual since the war broke out, excepting Lord Roberts.

General Pau's French chef has produced a new dish. Every day for that general, up to last accounts, he had supplied 122 new dishes.

During the Russian-Turkish war the Russian generals at the front dined off silver plate and champagne. In this war the Grand Duke Nicholas is served with simple fare in simple fashion.

TURKS GIVE WAY TO MORGENTHAU

LONDON, Dec. 3.—How the Turks were forced to give way to United States Ambassador Morgenthau in Constantinople is related in the Daily Chronicle, which has received a letter from Charles Tucker, for many years in business in Constantinople, and now a refugee in Athens, telling his experiences and in which he lays special stress on the debt of gratitude British refugees owe to Morgenthau. Mr. Tucker says:

"Mr. Morgenthau, the United States ambassador, who had been instructed to take charge of British interests, agreed most willingly to do so. He at once set about to arrange for a special train to leave with the refugees. He obtained the consent of Talaat Bey, the minister of the interior, that the train would leave on Sunday evening, November 1. The British ambassador was to leave the same night by another train.

"The station was crowded hours before the departure time, but Talaat Bey's promise was not kept. The police refused to give passports, saying they had not yet received instructions to do so.

If we had not received a shipment of 25 Pianos and 12 Player Pianos yesterday we wouldn't have had an instrument left to sell

That's the Way This Piano Sale Is Going

Piano Dept. 3d Floor.

It's the most talked-of event in Piano circles that has ever been launched in Boston

Piano Dept. 3d Floor.

A Piano

A GIFT FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

is brought within the reach of everyone through this great sale.

Hundreds of New England families may now enjoy the song and dance made possible by music

This Christmas Day

Order it now while prices are almost half.

We'll deliver it whenever you say.

The terms of payment will be adjusted to the individual wishes of the purchaser

The remarkable success of this sale is based on these facts

A New England manufacturer offered to sell us Pianos at the actual cost of material and labor in order to keep his factory running and his force employed.

The only restriction being that we were not to advertise the name.

We saw an opportunity to save our customers money—big money—on the best Pianos and Player Pianos made, and here's the way we went about it:

We arranged to sell these Pianos and Player Pianos on the easiest possible terms

You can pay as little as $5.00 a month on Pianos or 17c a day

You can pay as little as $9.00 a month on Player Pianos or 30c a day

We can't advertise the name, but it is on every instrument. You'll marvel the more when you see it.

THE SALE met with immediate success — overwhelming in its volume. We're selling pianos faster than the maker can deliver them—but it isn't so remarkable when you consider that

These are standard Pianos made right here in New England and fully guaranteed by the R. H. White Co.

THE SALE WILL CONTINUE ONLY SO LONG AS THE FACTORY WILL SUPPLY THE PIANOS AT COST.

The city is after a slogan to be put on a big illuminated sign at the South station. Mayor Curley has appointed A. Shuman, John N. Cole and George W. Coleman as a committee to select a slogan, and the AMERICAN has invited suggestions.

Hundreds of slogans came in today's mail. If you send your slogan to the AMERICAN and if it is adopted by the committee, the AMERICAN will pay your $5 in gold.

An idea of just what is wanted by the slogan may be had from the slogan which is to be placed on a sign at the North station. This sign will read:

BOSTON IS THE BEST PLACE
To live in
To manufacture in
To trade in
To visit in.

The slogans in this contest should express a similar idea. All suggestions must be in at the AMERICAN office not later than 5 p. m. Saturday, December 5. Address all communications to Slogan Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street.

MUSTEROLE--QUICK RELIEF! NO BLISTER!

It Soothes and Relieves Like a Mustard Plaster Without the Burn or Sting

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and usually the pain is gone!

Doctors and nurses use MUSTEROLE and recommend it to their patients.

They will gladly tell you what relief is given from Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest (it often prevents Pneumonia).

At your druggist's, in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Refuse imitations—get what you ask for. The Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Why Cadum Is Good for Skin Diseases

The important thing in treating most skin diseases is to keep water away from the inflamed parts and make the covering as air tight as possible. This, according to a very distinguished New York physician, seems to kill the germs and set up the healing process quickly. Cadum, the well-known healing remedy, supplies that kind of a covering and keeps the air out. This covering consists of petrolatum and white wax, without adding water. Two other ingredients of Cadum are zinc oxide, which dries up the water that comes from the sores, and oil of cade, which is one of the oldest and best-known remedies for eczema. Physicians everywhere employ oil of cade more often, perhaps, than any other one thing in treating eczema. Cadum costs 10c for a trial box, while the 25c box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size.

TIP CARTS MUST USE SOFT PEDAL

Drivers of city tipcarts must proceed pianissimo in the vicinity of hospitals and, in fact, throughout Boston, Commissioner of Public Works Rourke told physicians from the leading hospitals and the Women's Municipal League, at a hearing before the Street Commissioners.

"There is a rule in my department that horses with tipcarts shall not be driven faster than a walk," said Mr. Rourke. "If any of you ladies see or hear any city tipcart going faster than a walk, please observe the number of the cart and telephone to me. I will have the driver suspended for two or three days."

Dr. Frank H. Hall, acting superintendent of the City Hospital, said:

"All night we hear the tooting of horns and shrieking of siren whistles on the autos on Massachusetts avenue. I would not want to have the noise of the horns forbidden, if it was likely to result in accidents at the crossings."

Dr. Louis H. Burtingame of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital on Huntington avenue, said the greatest source of noise near his hospital is political orators and evening singers.

Chester I. Campbell, representing the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, the Massachusetts Garage Association and the Boston Commercial Vehicle Association, spoke in opposition to diverting the traffic from streets named by the commissioners. He declared he would support a bill for lessening the automobile horn noise.

LOTTERY DAY FOR 17 CANDIDATES

Today is lottery day for the candidates at Boston's city election. The names of the seventeen candidates for the City Council and School Committee will be placed in a box by Chairman Minton of the Election Commissioners and each candidate will be drawn in turn.

This will give them their official places on the ballot, avoiding the old evil of incoming candidates whose names begin with "A" to give them first place on the ballot.

James M. Keyes, withdrew as a candidate for School Committee in a race against the clock. He arrived at the Election Bureau four minutes before the hour limit for withdrawal expired and had to move to fill out the blanks on the official paper.

This leaves four in the school contest and thirteen in the City Council race.

Wilson Honors 1,500 'Corn Boys'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Wilson shook hands with 1,500 "Corn Boys' Club" members who were sent to Washington as a reward for winning agricultural contests in Ohio. GIRLS TESTIFY AT RUSSELL HEARING

A number of girls added their testimony to the evidence being gathered by the police captains of the five Cambridge precincts on the charges against Patrolman James D. Russell, at the resumed hearing this afternoon.

The charges, formally presented by Acting Chief of Police John Murray, accuse the patrolman of being too friendly with persons with whom he came into contact in the performance of his duties. The most startling evidence was that of Miss Frances Creegan of Main street, Cambridgeport.

Miss Creegan said that Russell had asked her to marry him, but that she refused. She said that she and the officer, with another couple, took an auto ride to an inn in Bedford. Descriptions of other rides with him formed an important part of her story. Miss Creegan gave as the reason for her break with Russell his jealousy of Mrs. Patten. The latter was also a witness in the hearing, as was Miss Lillian G. Kennedy, now an inmate of the House of the Good Shepherd in Roxbury.

Witnesses appeared from the court house to testify to the records in the probation office of the witnesses against Russell.

MUST BEAT KAISER SAYS KITCHENER

Irvin S. Cobb reports, in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, an interview on the war with Lord Kitchener. The interviewer encountered a man who asked more questions than he answered, but having pumped his questioner dry, expressed his views freely in the only talk, Mr. Cobb declares, which Lord Kitchener has given for publication since the war began.

"The war will last not less than three years." Lord Kitchener said. "It will end only when Germany is thoroughly defeated, not before—defeated on land and on sea. That the allies will win is certain. That focus to win will require a minimum period of three years I think probable. It might last longer—this war might. It might end sooner. It can end in only one way.

"This war will end in a month from now, or six months or a year, I do not think likely so, to be on the safe side, say three years—at least three years.

BRITAIN TO FIGHT TO THE END.

"If Germany gives up sooner, so much the better for Germany and for us and for all the world. If three years are required for the undertaking, or more than three years, the world will find that we, for our part, are prepared to go on, and ready to go on, and determined to go on, and certain to go on. In any event this war can have but one outcome—one ultimate conclusion."

"Then Germany still think they will win," said Lord Kitchener, sneaking with the inflection that made the remark part plain statement and part question. "I wonder how long a time they think it will take them to win?"

"They are still fully confident," Mr. Cobb replied, "but they have changed their schedule—their time card."

Here Lord Kitchener made use of the one outright gesture he used. He brought his fist down hard on the table in front of him with a thump. It was a big, sinewy fist—put it in a glove and it would make you think of a bunch of bananas—and the thump was audible and solid.

GERMAN CAMPAIGN A FAILURE.

"They are right in one regard," he said slowly; "it will take longer than a year to end this war. But they are wrong in another regard; they are wrong when they think they are going to win—if, indeed, in their hearts they honestly think that. They are not going to win.

"Their campaign in the west is a failure. It is a failure already, and it will become more and more a failure as time passes. When an army of invasion ceases to invade, that army has lost its principal function and has failed in its principal object. When that army hides itself in trenches and fights at long range, it is doing nothing except waste itself; and especially is this true when that army, having reached its maximum of strength and efficiency and aggressiveness months before, is now losing in all those essentials.

"To lie in that unending chain of trenches which stretches across Northern France for hundreds of miles, like a long, gray snake—that is not waging a successful campaign. That is even waging war, as I conceive war to be. For an army of defence? Perhaps, yes; though, under certain circumstances, it might be a mistake for an army of defence so to disguise itself. For an army of invasion? Well, events—the future—will justify my belief. Of that I am sure, and I am sure that I am alive.

AERO ATTACKS NOT WAR.

"Dropping bombs on cities, whether those cities be defended or undefended, is not waging war. It is a costly, spectacular byplay which counts for naught in the final result and really does not count in the debit of momentary advantage.

"Paris might be captured, and still the war would go on. England might be invaded—though I believe the enemy has not yet worked out complete plans for that undertaking—and still the war would go on. Germany might take and keep the other side of the Channel, as she has already taken Antwerp, and still the war would go on. Belgium might be made a captive province for the time being, and still the war would go on.

"This war is going on until Germany has been defeated. There is no other possible contingency."

Has not the confidence of the German soldiers been shaken by recent events in the western theatre of war, and especially by what has been happening in France during the last month? What do the men think of the failure of the German plan of campaign toward Paris?

MISTAKES OF GENERALS.

"I do not understand why the knowledge of the truth of the situation as it exists today has not spread through the armies and affected the men. They must guess as we here on the other side know—that their generals have made some terrible mistakes. All generals make mistakes, just as all men make them; but the mistakes that they have made are such great, such tremendously great, mistakes!"

As the interview proceeded, Lord Kitchener asked the German attitude toward the soldiers of the allies. Mr. Cobb replied that the Germans regard the Russian soldier as a stubborn fighter and the officers incompetent; they concede the excellence of the French light field artillery, but say the French soldier lacks physical endurance; the English are the hardest fighters they have to meet, and they speak particularly well of the fighting qualities of the Scotch, but say there are not enough British troops in the field to count as a factor in the western campaign.

"That is a defect," Lord Kitchener said, referring to the numerical strength of the British, "which we are taking steps to remedy. There is no better fighting man alive than the Scotchman—anywhere. In what way do the Germans justify their treatment of Belgium?"

Mr. Cobb replied that the German attitude had changed since September, and, having first defended invasion from military necessity, they were now basing it on the discovery of secret papers in the Belgian archives exposing Belgium as a potential and actual ally of France and England before hostilities.

ALIBI TOO LATE.

"In other words," commented Lord Kitchener, "the Germans prepared their alibi after the act was committed—which weakens the alibi without excusing the act. It is a poor defence that must be charged in the middle of the trial.

"War has its ethics, which often upset the ethics of peace," he went on, speaking of the German course in Belgium; "but if it be granted that the man in uniform holds absolute dominion over the lives and property of non-combatants of a nation, he loses, to my conception, his proper and ordained functions. If that standard is to prevail, we shall all cease to be soldiers and shall enroll hired executioners and send them forth against our enemy with guns and bayonets in noses and firebrands in their hands.

"Years ago, in the Soudan, I was called on to fight an enemy who practiced this code; but that enemy was a savage, so-called, and the Germans, as they themselves tell us, are the exclusive owners of the highest civilization the world has ever seen."

War Will Last 3 Years---Kitchener

This war will last not less than three years. It will end only when Germany is thoroughly defeated, not before—defeated on land and sea. That the allies will win is certain.

That for us to win will require a minimum period of three years, I think probable. It might last longer—this war might. It might end sooner. It can end in only one way.

If Germany gives up sooner, so much the better for Germany and for us and for all the world.

In any event this war can have but one outcome—one ultimate conclusion. This war is going on until Germany has been defeated. There is no other possible contingency.—Earl Kitchener, in Interview with Irvin S. Cobb, for the Saturday Evening Post.

SHOE WORKERS OF LYNN TO STRIKE

Orders were issued today for a strike of 15,000 shoe workers in Lynn. Between sixty and seventy shops are affected. The strike is due to take place at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow, as a protest against notices posted by the Industrial Bureau of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce. The notices state that between 10 and 12 a. m. tomorrow the shoe workers of Lynn shall vote whether they are in favor of or opposed to having all their differences settled by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. The vote to strike was taken at a special meeting held at No. 19 Central square, Lynn, at which twelve locals of the United Shoe Workers of America were represented. The strike orders were passed in resolutions adopted at the meeting. All members of the union were notified of the action today by General Secretary Michael Tracey.

The strikers are instructed to leave their places at the designated time and in a quiet and orderly manner report to their local headquarters to await instructions. They have also been told to be prepared to return to work at 1 o'clock.

Secretary Tracey will address 2,000 girls, members of Stitchers' Local No. 57, at a special meeting tonight in Exchange Hall, Market street, Lynn.

Reduce Quarantine on Cattle Plague

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Orders further reducing the area quarantined on account of the foot and mouth disease today were prepared by the Department of Agriculture and await the signature of Secretary Houston. These orders will permit freer movement of cattle, dairy products and feed. Department officials stated that the epidemic is on the wane and shortly will be stamped out entirely. Up to date the government's share of indemnities paid owners of cattle killed to prevent the spread of the malady totals $903,000. State governments are to pay an equal sum.

ARREST SUSPECT IN FIREBUG HUNT

While James Ring, twenty-seven, of No. 12 Bowdoin street, was being arraigned in Brighton Court, charged with setting fire to the stable of Frank Lombard, at No. 2 Lincoln street, Brighton, today, the Boston and State police waged a vigorous search for an incendiary, who imperilled the lives of twenty persons in the four-story tenement house at No. 113 Leverett street, West End.

Ring is also accused of setting fire to the storehouse of Abraham Segal, at No. 3 Waverly street, Brighton. He was arrested by Special Policeman Mitchell of the Brighton station. He pleaded not guilty and Judge Farmer held him in $2,000 for a hearing next Monday.

Two cigar boxes containing a quantity of tendinee-soaked cotton waste and a time candle were found by District Chief Madison in an empty apartment on the second floor of the West End house. These had been placed in closets in the front and middle rooms, the floor of which had been soaked with benzine.

The flames were gaining headway when discovered by Mrs. Rose Samberdak, who lives on the first floor. She awoke her husband and three children. Patrolman Shea of the Joy street station aroused the families of Morris Karlin and Samuel Caplan, who lived in closets in the front. The occupants escaped to the street in their night clothes.

The identity of the firebug is a mystery. The building is owned by E. A. Hyde of Dorchester. While the fire was in progress a member of Protective No. 1 and a civilian had a fist fight.

ATHLETIC CLUB GIVES $175.50 TO THE AMERICAN'S CHRISTMAS FUND

Collection Made at the Atlas A. A. to Buy Baskets for the Poor.

The athletes are enlisted for the AMERICAN'S "Give a Basket" fund. The fund is richer today by $175.50, the contribution of members of the Atlas Athletic Association and of the Association itself at the weekly meeting.

During the preliminaries a collection was taken. The club directors donated $25. Members of the Association contributed $150.50, making the total $175.50—a generous addition to the Christmas cause.

The AMERICAN extends thanks to Director Daniel Lane, Miah Murray and others of the Association and to Eddie Mack, who helped collect the contributions.

PECULIAR FITNESS IN NAME.

There is a peculiar fitness in the name of the A. A. A. in this connection. Mythology has it that Atlas bore the burden of the world on his shoulders. The Atlas A. A. is bearing part of the burden of the poor, in so far as it has contributed to the "Give a Basket" fund.

There is something that readers of the AMERICAN can do to help the Christmas editor, as well as to contribute to the fund. That is, to send in names of poor families which, in the reader's opinion, are in need of Christmas help.

Do you know of such a family, one that needs and should have a Christmas dinner from the "Give a Basket" fund? If you do, send in the name to the Christmas editor, No. 82 Summer street. Communications will, of course, be confidential.

The "Give a Basket" fund is, of course, only one part of the general Christmas celebration which the AMERICAN is arranging. Another welcome part of the program includes a series of six evening entertainments on Boston Common, leading up to Christmas night.

The evening celebrations will begin on Saturday evening, December 19, will skip Sunday evening, begin Monday evening, December 21, and continue up to and including Christmas night, Friday, December 25.

There will be a special evening for children, the date to be announced in due time.

The tree will gleam with brilliant illumination. There will be singing of Christmas carols by children. There will be general singing for old and young. Military bands will play from the Parkman Memorial bandstand. Soloists will sing and the Christmas spirit will rule.

The AMERICAN will defray all the expenses of the big celebration on the Common. None of the money contributed to the "Give a Basket" fund will be used for the free festivities. Every cent for the "Give a Basket" fund will be spent on the dinners for poor families.

The AMERICAN'S truck and team drivers have volunteered their services free for the work of delivering the dinner baskets to the homes of the poor.

Sale of tickets for the charity ball of the Tammany Club of Ward 17, which has voted the net proceeds to the "Give a Basket" fund, goes merrily on. The club has already forwarded the AMERICAN $500 from the advance sale. Mayor Curley, head of the club, estimates that the fund will reap from $2,000 to $3,000 from this big charitable festivity.

The Christmas editor receives more and more letters, endorsing the "Give a Basket" fund and the whole Christmas scheme.

Asa P. French, former United States District Attorney, writes:

Christmas Editor—I take great pleasure in sending you my check for $10 which, I understand, will represent Christmas dinners for five families. It was a splendid thing for your paper to undertake and, in spite of the hard times, should meet with hearty response. Very truly yours,

ASA P. FRENCH.

SUNDS $5 AND MESSAGE.

Barry N. Farren, the former theatre manager and now in the restaurant business, sends a five-dollar bill, with the hearty message: "Treat—the AMERICAN will make many people happy Christmas Day." Charles J. Chance of No. 142 A street, South Boston, writes:

Christmas Editor—Your "Give a Basket" for Xmas is certainly deserving of the help of every person doing business in Boston, although many may give to those that are around them, there are those that you can reach that we know nothing about, others that have that pride and are somewhat ashamed to let their nearby neighbors know their condition and that is too often true. With best wishes for success. Yours truly,

CHARLES J. CHANCE.

John J. Moran, the State Street broker, when he subscribed $15, made this statement:

I think your plan of providing Christmas dinners for the poor and needy at Christmas time is most worthy.

Appeals likewise come in to the Christmas editor, appeals for Christmas dinners, pathetic requests that the writer be not forgotten when the distribution of baskets begins. Many of the writers are children, who write frank and honest little letters, that touch the heart deeply.

TYPICAL BOY'S LETTER.

Here's a typical boy's letter:

Christmas Editor—I would like very much if you would send me a basket. My father didn't work for about six weeks and we have eight of a family. Me and a brother, older than myself, go out and sell papers before school and after school. I don't think that we will have a very happy Christmas without your help. We will be very much obliged.

A widow writes and asks to have her circumstances investigated thus:

Christmas Editor—As I am a widow and have a sick and aged mother to care for, leaving a brother laid up with inflammatory rheumatism, and am in very poor circumstances, would be delighted if you would send me a Christmas basket. If you wish to send someone out to investigate this case, would be pleased to have you.

Here is a brief request:

Christmas Editor—I am just writing you these few lines to ask you, would you all be kind enough to help me out this Christmas in sending me a basket as I am unable to get one myself.

'POISON' VICTIMS BURIED BY STATE

Peter, Anthony and Caroline Krukas, the little children who died after a brief and mysterious illness on Thanksgiving day in Woburn, were buried in that city today with the cause of their death as much a mystery as ever, pending reports from Tufts College on the analysis of their internal organs. It is supposed they were accidentally poisoned.

The three bodies were committed to the earth without service or prayer. All the children were under seven years of age. The bodies, which have been at the undertaking rooms of H. J. Melancklin since the partial autopsies on November 27, were taken to the cemetery without previous announcement and as inconspicuously as possible, in order to avoid drawing any spectators.

The only mourner at the graveyard was the children's father. Woburn people have not known whether the children's parents are living as the little ones were sent to Woburn by the State, to the home of Miss Nora O'Hara at No. 24 Oak street.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tomasz Krukas of Athol, who are Russians. There were five children in the family. All were at Miss O'Hara's. The other two, who escaped the pitiable fate of Peter, Anthony and Caroline, are Anna, ten years, and Charles, eight.

The father, who has not been in Woburn since the children died, so far as known, came to the undertakers in the morning and accompanied the bodies to the cemetery. The mother was not there.

The interment made one more chapter in the strange triple tragedy. The remaining chapter or chapters—still to be written—may explain the actual cause of death.

Peter, Anthony and Caroline were playing on a public dump near Oak street in Woburn on Thanksgiving morning. At noon they came home and ate walnuts. Suddenly all were taken violently ill. Peter died in an hour. Anthony and Caroline lingered until 6 o'clock at the Choate Hospital.

The walnuts were eliminated in the death theory because others in the family ate them without harm. Two empty shellac bottles were found on the dump. Neighborhood children talked of having seen the Krukas children drink from "a brown bottle." Poisoning by wood alcohol in shellac was held as the cause. Later Medical Examiner Kelcher said that, in his preliminary examination, he found nothing to substantiate this theory.

Then a dried tube of rat poison said to have contained arsenic and phosphorus, was found in the dump yard. The Tufts College analysts, who had the children's organs for examination, were notified of this discovery, so they could test for these poisons. The official report is still to be sent to Medical Examiner Kelliher.

Watch Suspects in $150,000 Robbery Grand Jury to Make Investigation

Police Expect to Unearth Conspiracy Involving Trusted Official of Company.

to total up $150,000. It was declared that an arrest was expected at any moment in the case.

According to the police, their investigations may disclose a conspiracy which is certain to develop a scandal. They said they were convinced some person high in the confidence of the company was implicated in the robberies.

The methods of the looter or looters, were most ingenious and systematic, said the police. The thefts extended over a period of at least five years. The method in general consisted in the stealing of pledges—diamonds, watches and other jewelry—from the vaults and in the repledging of them.

RE-PLEDGE GEMS.

The police worked on a theory that the pledges after being removed from the company's vault, would be brought into the office by a stranger conniving with "someone inside." The article would then be re-pledged, ticketed with the old pledge ticket and replaced in the vault.

This left the pledges intact in the vault, but left the records a complicated financial tangle. It was said. It was claimed the records were most carefully and skilfully juggled.

Cashier George B. Hall today declared he had found all the pledges safe in the vault and that the public need have no fears that any pledges had been stolen. He said the losses, "if any," were in money.

District Attorney Pelletier today started a vigorous inquiry into the thefts. This made the investigations three in number—one by the directors, employing private detectives and special expert accountants, and the third by police inspectors under Captain Ainsley C. Armstrong.

The District Attorney sent for the directors and officials of the loan company after assigning Inspector Silas Watte to the case. The District Attorney said he was bent on seeing the company's books and papers, as well as the report of the auditors who have been going over the accounts.

The District Attorney said he would have the December Grand Jury, which meets next Monday at the courthouse, delve thoroughly into the thefts.

FEAR FOR PLEDGES.

There were many callers at the office of the District Attorney today, seeking information as to the safety of their pledges in the company's office. They told the District Attorney they feared the pledges might be missing.

Several hundred called at the offices of the company at No. 75 Cornhill. Many inquired after their pledges. In each case the pledge was brought forth to satisfy the inquirer. It was said that from 50 to 200 had withdrawn their pledges after paying the proper sums.

At times the offices were pretty well crowded. There was no excitement. Many came to deposit pledges to secure money.

Director Charles P. Curtis said he and his associate directors would leave no stone unturned in their efforts to "catch the party responsible" for the robberies.

It was explained that suspicion rested on two or three persons. It was understood these were under surveillance.

The directors of the company held a conference at 11 o'clock with private detectives. Later it was stated that real developments might be expected in a short time.

CREDIT TO KENNEDY.

The directors give the credit for most of the work of uncovering the robberies to Joseph P. Kennedy, director of the company as the representative on the board of the City of Boston. Today Director Kennedy told for the first time how a chance meeting with a friend led to his investigations of the company's books.

The friend told him "there was something wrong down at the Collateral Loan Company." Director Kennedy at once got busy and, with the other directors and a corps of accountants, has been going over the books night and day.

Cashier George E. Hall said:

"Every one of our pledges is now intact in the vault. No bonafide pledges were ever taken. Any person can get his pledge here in five minutes by paying the money due on it.

"Not one of the pledges has ever been out of the vaults. We are ready to deliver any pledge at any time. The public will not suffer any loss whatsoever, and while we are still at sea as to just what happened, every loss, if there was loss, seems to have been in cash.

"Mr. Cobb went out of town yesterday. I don't know whether he will be back today.

"We are all at sea, and the accounts are away off."

REASON FOR SILENCE.

Director Charles P. Curtis said:

"It is but fair to say that one of our reasons for preserving silence thus far is our hope to catch the party responsible."

Director Curtis said he felt sure the loss would be under $150,000, but that he was unable to estimate the total. He said, however, he might be mistaken in his estimate, as expert accountants were still at work, and their inquiries might bring to light other losses.

Director Curtis refused to discuss the directors' suspicions as to who was guilty of the thefts.

Chief McIarr of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation was asked if he knew the facts of the case. He said he had no statement to make.

"Were you called in?" he was asked.

"That's none of your business," was his reply. "This is a private affair between the officials of the company and this office."

"Have you any evidence or clews to the identity of the looter or looters?"

McIARR RETICENT.

"That is none of your business. What a fine piece of cheese I would be to tell you and the newspapers what this office is working on or doing in connection with this case."

Chief McIarr then said Captain Ainsley C. Armstrong and a number of police inspectors were at work on the case.

Direct Kennedy himself personally supervised the inquiry into the company's books today. This is Director Kennedy's story of his investigation of the thefts:

"The first I heard of it was last Saturday. I was to go away that afternoon. I met a friend on the street.

"'Are you still down at the Collateral Loan Company?' he asked me.

"'Yes,' I replied.

"I told him, however, that I had resigned as my term was up this month.

"'There's something wrong down there,' my friend told me.

"I had resigned because I did not want to embarrass Mayor Curley, and I wanted to give him time to appoint my successor.

"But after hearing what my friend said, I went to Mayor Curley at once. I told him what I had heard.

"'I would like to have a couple of days to look this up,' I told him.

"'Go as far as you like,' the Mayor said. 'Come back and tell me what you find on Monday.'

"I set to work at once Saturday. I worked all Saturday night and Monday, and I found absolute proof of the rumor which I had heard through my friend. This I reported coming to me in this way was the first word I had had of the thefts.

"Other things have developed since, so that I am not at liberty to discuss the matter. The persons guilty of the thefts, or what steps we shall take.

"I called in John F. Moors, director of the company representing the State of Massachusetts. He called in Director Curtis, one of the directors representing the stockholders of the company.

FIGURES ASTOUNDING.

"I will say that the figures we uncovered rather astounded me."

Director Kennedy, who is the son-in-law of former Mayor Fitzgerald, and is president of the Columbia Trust Company of East Boston—he is the youngest bank president in New England—was asked if the amount of the thefts had been ascertained.

"Not completely," he said. "We are still investigating."

"Do you think it will reach half a million?"

"Oh, no, not as high as that. I should say about $150,000."

"Was the method used by the thief or thieves that of stealing pledges from the vaults and repledging them?" he was asked.

"Yes, but two or three methods might have been employed," Director Kennedy replied.

The directors of the victimized company met again today, as they have been meeting every day since. Director Kennedy made his startling discoveries. They have given out it is impossible to state, now, but in giving the exact amount. They claim that the company's surplus fund of $1,000,000 is $160,000 with all its irregularities. According to this statement the depositors will lose nothing.

The following official statement has been given out by the directors:

"CAPITAL UNIMPAIRED."

"Mr. Charles P. Curtis, one of the directors representing the stockholders, and Joseph P. Kennedy and John F. Moors, representing respectively the city and the State, have been investigating the affairs of the Collateral Loan Company. A certified public accountant has been put on the books and steps have been taken to protect the interests of the stockholders.

"There have been losses, but the surplus is more than sufficient to take care of them, leaving the capital of $1,200,000 wholly unimpaired. The methods of keeping the pledges and the records of the pledges has been so changed that similar losses can not occur again. The public will lose nothing."

Mr. Moors, when asked for details concerning the thefts, said:

"The first discovery was made by the executive officers. The later work has been done mostly by Messrs. Curtis, Kennedy and myself. I have no hesitation in saying that the chief credit for following up the first discoveries is due to Mr. Kennedy, on account of his extraordinary resourcefulness. The last few days he has given up entirely to this work."

DISCOVERED IN OCTOBER.

"It was announced at the October meeting of the directors that there were two small items on the books which looked suspicious. The clew has been followed closely, with the result that the maximum amount of loss can be now very nearly determined.

"It is not true that large amounts of diamonds have been taken from the company's vaults at certain times, but there have been a number of comparatively small thefts made by great ingenuity. The largest amounts of jewelry taken out at any one time were not over $800."

"Mr. Curtis, Mr. Kennedy and I intend to be well within the limits of prudence in stating that the surplus of the company will more than take care of the total loss. This statement seems fully justified by the report of the accountants, who have already reported. But this work is now being checked up by another firm of accountants and till they report I hesitate to give the figures more closely."

COBB A DIRECTOR.

Mr. Moors refuses to discuss the resignation of President Cobb, who has been president and a director for the last five years. Persons say that his father, Francis D. Cobb, had been its president since 1890, and he is at present one of the directors. The younger Mr. Cobb resides at No. 7 Walnut street, but cannot be located.

The Collateral Loan Company does business under a special charter issued by the Legislature and is capitalized for $1,500,000. It originally was organized as a charitable institution to loan funds to poor people. The rate of interest on loans is much smaller than in other institutions of its kind. A stock dividend melon of about 100 per cent. was cut about a year ago.

It is often referred to as the place where the jewelry of society is pawned. In the last report of the directors, the surplus fund amounted to $164,476.56. It does an annual business running into the millions. Last year the loans amounted to $2,820,-194.07. Recently it moved into elaborate quarters on Cornhill.

Up to five years ago the company was under the supervision of the Massachusetts Bank Commission. Since then, it was said today, its affairs have been under the supervision of the State Supervisor of Small Loans.

Public Will Not Suffer by Thefts, Cashier Asserts

Cashier George B. Hall of the Collateral Loan Company, said today:

"Any person can get his pledge back in five minutes by paying the money due on it.

"Not one of the pledges has ever been out of the vaults. We are ready to deliver any pledge at any time. The public will not suffer any loss whatsoever."

MRS. SCUDDER'S FATE WITH JURY

and attacked the integrity of the government witnesses. He said:

"If Mrs. Scudder believed in her heart that great harm or a felony was about to be committed she had a right to kill Scudder according to the law. She had a right to protect herself against him and under the conditions which existed at the time the law cannot hold her responsible for killing him.

"The prosecution has produced no other motive as a cause for the shooting, but on Scudder's part all the evidence tends to show he was obsessed with an unspeakable motive in entering her apartment. Scudder bore a bad reputation. Everybody in Taunton knew of his morale character. He was a most unfortunate man.

"On the other hand Mrs. Scudder was a good woman. There has been no evidence but that she lived a clean life in New York and in Taunton. On the witness stand she was calm, patient, womanly and honest. After being subjected to such a gruelling cross-examination as District Attorney Kenney gave her it was no wonder she collapsed."

ATTACKS BOY WITNESS.

Attorney Hathaway then scored the State's chief witness, Early Chase, a thirteen-year-old boy. He said the boy was not honest and declared he had been coached in his testimony. Without Chase, he declared, the prosecution "did not have a leg to stand on."

Confounin ghis argument Hathaway declared:

"Edgar Scudder was a fiend incarnate. He was the lowest type of man. Miss Farley, the police matron, was a stool pigeon for the Taunton police. When Mrs. Scudder was in her charge she put her through a cross-examination. She actually picked her to pieces trying to secure evidence which the prosecution might use in this trial. That woman is a human vulture."

WAVES THE REVOLVER.

At this point Hathaway seized the weapon with which Scudder was slain. He waved it in front of the jury box and said:

"This is her husband's revolver with which Mabel Scudder defended her sacred honor."

In closing his argument District Attorney John T. Kenney said:

"If things in this case were as Mr. Hathaway says we would not be here. If it be true that Edgar Scudder was trying to harm Mrs. Scudder I would say shoot him on the spot, but such is not the case. I will admit the revolting character of the whole affair and I am sorry to be obliged to argue the real facts in the case.

"The Commonwealth maintains that when Mrs. Scudder was arrested following the shooting she was on the verge of delirium tremens. Because of her mental condition she was not indicted for first degree murder."

FINE CAMBRIDGE DRUGGIST $150

The first convictions resulting from the Cambridge liquor crusade came today in Cambridge district court. John A. Lane, a druggist at No. 752 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, was found guilty of selling liquor illegally, of maintaining a liquor nuisance and of keeping and exposing liquor for sale. He was fined $50 on each charge, $150 in all. He appealed and was held in $400 for Superior Court.

Lane's clerk, Jerome O'Leary, was convicted on three counts of illegal sale of liquor. He was fined $50 on one count and the other two were filed. Because of his youth the fine was suspended and O'Leary was placed on probation for a year.

Fred J. Weyand of the Weyand agency, who secured the evidence with the aid of two other detectives, testified that he drove up to Lane's store in an old wagon. In the wagon was an old stove and the three men were dressed like laborers.

"We entered the store and laid 20 cents on the counter," said Weyand. "The clerk without saying a word passed up a bottle to us for the drinks."

LILLIAN CHATMAN MARRIES ROBBINS

Miss Lillian Ames Chatman, Boston society girl, granddaughter of Governor Ames and heiress to several millions, was married at noon today to Clarence Aaron Robbins, New York athlete, author and clubman. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Chatman, on Beacon street, Brookline.

Only the relatives of the couple were present. Neither the bride nor groom was attended. Rev. William Chaffin, pastor of the Unitarian Church at North Easton, officiated.

Robbins was divorced a few weeks ago in New York. It is said that the bride's parents opposed the match. She left home to live with friends in Brookline. Rather than have the wedding take place elsewhere than in their home, her parents then relented. The bride met Robbins several months ago while she was attending a fashionable finishing school in New York. Robbins is said to be heir to a large fortune.

MOTION PICTURE FAVORITES DANCE WITH "MOVIE FANS" AT GREAT BALL

Vivian Martin, one of the film stars who attended the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Ball.

Governor Walsh at Head of the Grand March with Mary Pickford.

The "reel life" folks cracked real life jokes. At the "movies" ball. The heroine of "easter stuff." The desperado, bold and tough. And others you know well enough Were crowded in the hall.

Early today a dance assembly of some 7,000 people adjourned from the Boston Arena on St. Botolph street, many of whom have no license to be living.

Take Mary (Famous) Pickford, for instance. Every now and then the petite Mary is shot or stabbed or tumbled off a cliff or drowned or done to death in some new and pleasing manner.

Yet she was there, right as a trivet. She was very much there, when she led the grand march with Governor Walsh, and when that was done, so told later.

It was the "movie" actors' ball, otherwise the second annual dance of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Massachusetts. A sergeant from "Sixteen" allowed there were rising 7,000 people present, and that estimate need not be censored by a single unit.

People who jammed in at the door before the police made them stop selling tickets, kept asking, "Well, will the big 'movie' stars really be here?" They were. That's what made it seem remarkable, that these heroines and heroes of hair-raising picture "stunts" actually were there in the flesh.

Clara Kimball (World) Young—the parenthesis mean their "picture" affiliations—was run over by an automobile last week, just to make a moving picture holiday, so to speak.

Next week the vivacious Clara is going to be killed, with her "che-ild," too, poor things. But she was not worried.

That handsome gentleman, right over there, talking with the Governor, was Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne's husband, who saves the heroine daily and who goes through film life eternally pursued, like Claude Kelair, by some "Desmond" of a villian.

Ons never would suspect to look at Vivian (World) Martin that the fair Vivian fell off a cliff 300 feet high—or was it 100 feet—that Wilk ad? Anyhow, it was one tough drop for such a petite lady.

CHEER MARY PICKFORD.

Only last Monday Edwin (Feature) August barely saved his life and the hearts of unknown thousands of "movie" patrons by successfully negotiating a hand-over-hand trip along a clothesline from one five-story roof to another, and yet Edwin didn't have a hair ruffled at the ball.

And Edith (Vitagraph) Story! D'ye know what happened to Edith? She was simply cut all to pieces in a day afternoon. But she didn't show railroad accident at 3:30 last Saturday scratch.

Likewise Pearl (Pathe) White and Paul (Pathe) Pantzer and scores of other film favorites—their name is legion, and life is short, and time and space—all showed that one may smile and smile and be a "movie" actor still.

Pearl White, heroine of the "The Perils of Pauline," now appearing in the AMERICAN, received a tremendous greeting from the hundreds who had seen her adventures on the films.

They made a leisurely start at the ball, and it was about 11:30 when Governor Walsh, with Adjutant-General Cole, and the Governor's staff, in full uniform, appeared.

Pearl White of the Pathe.

The crowd had hardly ceased cheering Mary Pickford's arrival when His Excellency was escorted on the floor, was presented to Miss Mary and began telling her how he just doted on moving pictures—"Pickford subjects," of course.

Then the police made a German advance and cleared the floor enough to allow a line to be formed, and the Governor led the grand march with Miss Pickford. He was followed by two little girls—and, bless their little hearts—but all the committee was on the floor, and there wasn't time to get the tots' names.

Next came Adjutant-General Cole, with Clara Kimball Young. The gilded staff strayed behind, each gallantly escorting a "movie" heroine, and other stars, managers, owners, producers and so forth made up the rest of the line, with their ladies.

The march figure was arranged so that one evolution resulted in the Governor, Miss Pickford and the two tots marching down the floor abreast, with the little girls between His Excellency and Miss Pickford.

The resemblance to a happy family party hit everybody in the house, especially when the Governor waved his hand in a protecting way toward his three charges.

The Governor, being a bachelor, made the joke all the more so. It seemed to tickle Adjutant-General Cole almost to death, though just where he fits laughing at a bachelor Governor nobody could explain, as he is a bachelor himself.

Then there was dancing and more dancing, clear into the petite hours, with prize dancing for cups offered by various stars and producers.

The scene was an engaging one. Not only was a large part of the dancers moving picture actors, familiar to the spectators, but the dance picture was a pretty one, with the large percentage of young and attractive women and girls and the display of elaborate gowns.

Clara Kimball Young of the World Co.

Arena Is Crowded to the Doors, and Many Are Unable to Enter.

The way in which many of the leading film stars went to great pains to be there gratified management and spectators. The dance trip idled at least two days' work for those coming from New York. Those who travelled away over from Chicago sacrificed even more time and pains, to say nothing of whole companies tied up while the star or stars were away at the Boston ball.

It seems as though enough moving picture money was there to pay the national debt, as all the leading companies were represented, and the moving picture investment in this country alone runs up to a staggering total.

Every class of moving picture life was in the throng—producers, managers, theatre owners, film exchange men, publicity men (meaning press agents), company directors, camera men and so on, clear down to ushers. Men whose nod makes or breaks moving picture experience were in the boxes, real "movie" magnates, who looked the part. A regiment of them came over from New York in two special cars. They arrived at the South Station at 6 o'clock, and, after being met by a local committee, made up an automobile parade, with a band, to the Copley Plaza.

The executive committee on the ball was made up of Samuel Grant, chairman; R. W. Drown, secretary, and C. M. Clark, treasurer. Working with them was an added committee of fourteen, headed by President H. H. Hemmon of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League. Various sub-committees worked like Trojans.

SAVE THE COMMON IS LOWELL'S PLEA

Save Boston Common from commercialism, is a cry which is heard in the common use of the people that is to be cut up into house lots, declared James A. Lowell, secretary of the Boston Common Society, against the criticism of Charles A. Prince, who advocated at the meeting of the United Improvement Society of the City Club having parking on the Common for public streets and, at times who oppose such action, on logical.

Secretary Lowell regards the criticisms against the Common as a "joke."

"Nothing can be done," he says, "without the consent of the Legislature, legislative action. So long as the people that pass through it are content, as apart from state affairs, that the city should have the use of the people, it is not worth while to the people that more streets in dollars and cents?

"Does it not attract thousands of visitors every year, who are charmed with our park system, and who regard Boston Common as one of the precious treasures of the city?

"We talk about the common use of public places for the people. What is more evident than that the Common stands in the centre of the traffic of things, as a monument to the fact that the people of Boston have valuable rights in the heart of the city.

"Let us have some sentiment about us. Historic treasures and not look at everything in mere dollars and cents. Is there nothing higher than this? We talk about the rights of the people. The Common is preserving those rights. While some would widen Park street, yet we know that as soon as we begin to take a little of the Common here and there this is but an introduction to taking more.

"Stop at the beginning. Hands off the Common. It is a precious heritage for the use of the people. It is not only longer a cow pasture, but may be made a place for the free and common use of the people. Nothing should deprive the people of this liberty.

She was in "The Passing Show of 1914" in Boston until two weeks ago, when she went to Chicago to make preparations for a visit of the stars.

The Adventures of Sherlock Cohen is the most amusing story that he has so far written for the AMERICAN Sunday Monthly Magazine given free with next Sunday's Boston Sunday AMERICAN, and we feel sure that our readers will rejoice in the misadventures of Mitzik's bespoiled waistcoat.

DAUGHTER IS AT TUTTLE FUNERAL

The funeral of Lucius Tuttle, president of the Boston & Maine Railroad from 1893 to 1910, and one of the most prominent railroad men in the United States, was held today at the South Church. The Rev. George A. Gordon, pastor of the church, officiated, and the services were exceedingly simple. No eulogy was delivered.

Mrs. David G. Brown, daughter of the deceased, who became estranged from her family after her marriage to her father's chauffeur, attended the funeral with her husband. They were joined by a few other intimate friends of the family were present.

While it is not known that Mrs. Brown will ever forgive his daughter, although his death has reconciled her with the other members of the family, Mrs. Brown is known to be remembered in her father's will to such an extent that it will be fortunate to do in a manner. The contents of the will are known only to Tuttle's attorneys.

David G. Brown, Tuttle's son-in-law, said today:

"The estrangement between my wife and her father was not caused by our marriage. The real reason is something altogether different, something I do not care to make public. Mr. Tuttle had no real ill feeling towards me."

Mrs. Brown said today that if it is found that she is cut off in her father's will she will bring suit to break it.

The bearers at the funeral today were Richard Olney, Murray Crane, Richard C. MacLaurin, Arthur E. Estabrook, William H. Thomas, Frank Hall, Wallace L. Pierce, J. Nelson Parker, Melvin O. Adams and William Endicott, 3d.

The ushers were: Hugh Bancroft, Elwyn H. Preston, J. Nelson Weeks, Frank Hall, Wallace L. Pierce, Albert Burt, Henry H. Bartlett, Earl A. Hyder, Carl Adams and Frederick Ingersoll.

Burial was in Hartford.

Honorary pall bearers present from the Institute of Technology, Old Colony Trust Company, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston & Maine Railroad, Maine Central Railroad, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, Connecticut River Railroad, Atlantic Conference, Beacon Society, Merchants Club, Exchange Club, Old Volunteers Club and the Algonquin Club.

Tank in Waltham Garage Blows Up

Two men narrowly escaped injury today when a compressed air tank exploded in the Motorcycle garage on Main street, Waltham. The air in the tank reached 120 degrees pressure and without warning blew up. The force of the explosion tore gas and steam pipes from the ceiling and walls and wrecked the telephone and did some damage to the automobiles stored there.

BRAVES' PARK TO SEAT OVER 32,000

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

The seating capacity of the new grounds to be built for the Braves will be greater than that at Fenway Park. This statement is made on good authority. Robert H. Doyle, one of the directors of the Boston National League club, Mr. Davis in the real estate holdings in New York. He is an old friend of Mr. Dufficy's and is financially interested in the Braves.

The seating capacity of Fenway Park is, under normal conditions, 30,000. World's series conditions, about 32,000. Mr. Doyle says the new Braves' park will take care of more than 32,000. He believes that it is best to provide for a maximum capacity and have done with it. He is of the opinion that only baseball day that will pay the interest in the increased investment, while two or three "big days" will send a horde of extra money into the club's coffers.

"Might as well do the thing right while we are about it," is Mr. Doyle's motto.

MANY OFFERS OF LAND.

All day long men with long rolls of paper under their arms are entering the offices of the Boston National League club in the Hotel Buckminster. They come one by one. They are ushered, one by one, into the private office of President Gaffney where they remain for five minutes or fifty-five minutes, as the case may be. Then they go out one by one. This sort of thing goes on all day.

These men with the long rolls of paper under their arms are real estate men—either owners of property or agents of owners. They want to sell a baseball park to the Boston National League club. The rolls of paper in the arms of the real estate men are plans for sale. The property is located in all parts of greater Boston. Some of the property is desirable and others are the worst kind of "dumps" in the shape of lots and sites.

HAS NOT DECIDED.

President Gaffney hasn't decided where to buy. He has made up no points well, but he wants to be sure he isn't overlooking anything. It was reported that he had decided on property at Forest Hills, but the report is untrue. No site has been decided.

There is another piece of property in a totally different section of the city that especially interests the Braves' Forest Hills—one that appeals to Mr. Robert H. Doyle, Mr. Dufficy's partner, who is also in Boston looking over likely sites for the new ball grounds.

Williams to Remain on Tiger Schedule

WILLIAMSTOWN, Dec. 3.—Although Manager Flint of the Williams football eleven has not completed his schedule for next year as yet, there is little doubt but that the Purple will again be found among the Princeton list of opponents. The Williams team made its first football trip to Princeton in the history of the college this past Fall, the contest with the Tigers taking the place of the usual meeting with Harvard at Cambridge.

Yale half promised Williams a game for next year, but indications point strongly to the Purple's remaining on the Princeton schedule. The fact that the Purple instilled the Tigers to a finish in the last Fall makes Princeton anxious for another chance at the sturdy lads from the Berkshires.

NOAH BRUSSO CHALLENGES NEW ENGLAND RING STARS

By JACK CONWAY.

NOAH BRUSSO, the pride of Attleboro and its suburbs, has created quite a commotion "down East" in our noble middleweights. Without even the slightest wagging, he has glided to the front of the pugilistic stage and announced that he is the best little 158-pound glove wielder in New England. Noah asserts that he only scales 151 pounds, but he believes that he is nevertheless able to give away seven or eight pounds to an opponent and still manage to breeze in a winner.

Brusso is managed by Eddie Moore of Attleboro, a recognized other points along the dear old New Haven & Almost. And Moore stamps Brusso as the real thing in the boxing game. We cannot afford to consider Eddie's statements lightly, as he has batted for 1000 in the Prophet League during the past few months.

Moore also manages Freddy Yelle. He tried to get attractive matches for Yelle for over a year, but all efforts were in vain, as the promoters refused to give him recognition.

FAR be it from us to talk about ourselves, but we were among the first to call Brusso the real goods. Yelle as a real fighter. We witnessed him perform in several out-of-town rings and were greatly impressed by his work.

The Taunton boy finally secured a bout with Freddy Welsh, lightweight champion of the well-known universe. Yelle did not beat Welsh, but he gave the title holder a rugged battle and proved that he is one of the most promising young boxers in the East. As a result of his fine showing against Welsh, Yelle is a much-sought-after boxer by the promoters.

BRUSSO may do as well as Yelle. The former is a strong, powerful youth and is a sweet puncher. He also keeps busy every minute in the ring, and this naturally makes a big hit with the "fans." The Attleboro boxer has trained near Plainfield of the West End at the Arena, and when all has been said and done he has put in the long end of the decision.

Brusso's next ring engagement will be with Frank Perron of Pawtucket. The contest will be staged at the Lakeside A. C. in Webster next Wednesday night, and has been advertised as for the French Canada lightweight championship of New England. Perron recently completed his service in the navy and says that he is in grand condition. The men should put up a hard, fast battle.

THE boxing promoters in New York are waging a bitter war against the "dead heads." They are the young men who will write in witness a fine tussle without first paying a visit to the box office and parting with some of their hard earned cash. Jimmy Johnstone, manager of the club which conducts shows in Madison Square Garden, has taken the lead in the fight against the "dead heads" and refuses to permit any person, with the exception of the newspapermen and promoters, to enter the club socially, to witness ring matches unless they purchase a ticket.

THERE are scores of boxers, although boxing managers, pool sharks and an army of what Charles D. Vett Lonn terms Saturday afternoon sports, who storm the doors of every boxing club in the country whenever a show is to be staged, and in some cases even go so far as to demand free admission. If the promoters were not to take a firm stand against this class of "dead heads" they would soon be forced into bankruptcy.

BOXING is a fine sport when conducted properly. Still there is no reason why it should be ranked as a commercial enterprise. The receipts of the various branches of athletics were obliged to pay for this space it would cost them millions of dollars each year.

THE so-called press privileges are often abused by the promoters. This is particularly true in the case of college football games. A press stand is furnished and is supposed to be for the use of the reporters. The poor scribes, however, are outnumbered at a ratio of 6 to 1 by the friends of the gear old management. We would not object to this so much if the management would distribute its favors to the average human beings, but the majority of the "guests" in variable turn into raving maniacs whenever any exciting play is executed.

BEFORE closing it might be well to remark that the college football leaders could profitably investigate how the press box is operated at Fenway Park. This particular box is in charge of Jim Shannon, who cares for the Western Union wires. He is a regular Czar once he takes command and makes it his duty to see that those persons who have not registered in the press book are kept out of it. There once was a time when the press boxes at the football games were jammed with almost everybody but newspaper men. Conditions, however, have now changed and the reporters are able to do their work—and any baseball writer will tell you that his job is not all pleasure—without being annoyed by a band of leather-lunged gentlemen.

THOSE last few remarks have not anything to do with boxing, but we believe that they will not do any harm and some of the writers' pet peeves would undoubtedly do a whole lot of good if acted upon.

Three Veterans Out for Wakefield Seven

Wakefield High has arranged hockey games with the strongest teams in Greater Boston and Captain Fred Reid will have his work cut out for him to develop a team that will be able to win the majority of its games. Coaches Bacon, Hall and Eaton are the only veterans available, while Glidden, Dolliver and Cuillier who were substitutes last season, are out. The schedule follows:

Jan. 4, Wakefield at Stoneham; Jan. 16, Reading at Wakefield; Jan. 20, Wakefield at Reading; Jan. 23, Wakefield at Winchester; Jan. 27, Winchester at Wakefield; Feb. 3, Wakefield at Stoneham; Feb. 6, Wakefield at Boston College H. S. at Boston; Mass. Institute of Technology at Wakefield.

English High Team Has Hard Schedule

The English High track team has a hard schedule to fulfil this season. Manager George O'Connor has arranged dual meets with the best school teams. The schedule follows: Jan. 27, Brookline High; Jan. 29, Mechanic Arts High; Feb. 3, Cambridge Rindge and Latin; Feb. 10, open; Feb. 20, Lynn English; March 3, Newton High at Lowell; March 12, Medford, pending.

PAWTUCKET, Dec. 3.—Ernest Mellen, goal tender on the Pawtucket soccer football team, sold farewell to his friends at Moshassuck Park, and would sail on the Lusitania Saturday for England, where he would join the Royal Field Artillery of the British army. He has been a resident here for five years and has played in the soccer championship games of this country.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Walter B. Elcock of the Dartmouth 1911 team was re-engaged to coach the Washington and Lee University football squad next season.

MURRAY BOWLERS ARE COMING FAST

THE rejuvenated Murray team is rolling its way to the front in the City Bowling League. This outfit has won six out of its last eight points, pushed Casino into last place, tied Carruth for fourth place and is but one point back of Adams Square and Boylston, which are tied for second place. What's more, it has rolled well over 1500 in its last two engagements.

WITH Murray coming as it has, the match with Chauncy at the South End Iaima next Wednesday night is of vital importance. Chauncy has started on its annual walkaway, as it were, and unless its progress is checked soon its opponents cannot expect to get into the running.

ADAMS Square, the only team which has beaten Chauncy, Arlington, fell before Beatty's "wrecking crew" last night, although they did manage to squeeze out one point by two pins. Murray took three points from Casino, losing the second game by sixteen sticks. The Carruth-Boylston match resulted in an even break.

WITH but a few exceptions, the pins broke badly all along the City circuit last night. Only three teams passed the 1500 mark. Murray topped these with a team total of 1551. Chauncy turned in 1524, while Boylston just nosed past the coveted mark with 1502.

INDIVIDUAL averages likewise suffered heavily. The list of 900 scores was a very slim one. "Bo" Hartford led the field with 247, "Ducky" Holmes was his nearest competitor, he having 234. Others who rolled 500 or better were: Poehler, Chauncy, 322; Swaks, Murray, 317; Hennessey, Adams Square, 317; Carey, Casino, 312; Fulton, Adams Square, 310; Spillane, Chauncy, 310; Rogan, Carruth, 309; Tilton, Murray, 306; Bishop, Carruth, 307; Gillispie, Murray, 305; Howard, Chauncy, 304; Morard, Murray, 303.

THE Christmas candlepin and Boston pin tournaments now in progress at Littlefield's alleys are attracting a big field of bowlers. The candlepin tournament will continue to December 19, on which night the twenty-four men having the highest five non-consecutive strings will meet in a special roll-off. The Boston pin contest will not end until Christmas Eve, when the eighteen bowlers with the highest non-consecutive strings will roll for the special prizes. Valuable and seasonable premiums will be offered in the candlepin tourney also.

C. LEEMAN captured the weekly roll-off at the Adams Square alleys, turning in a fine card of 352. This contest drew the biggest entry of the season. Nedike Leeman, the following hit 300 or better: Schultz, 310; Bowers, 324; Holmes, 321; Curtis, 315; Hennessey, 314; Stead, 311; Mahan, 310; H. Waters, 305; Creuts, 304; and Jenkins, 300.

THE Charlestown League, now in its third week, has already produced a pretty individual fight. Killilea, O'Keefe and Brady are the present leaders for the top-notch honors, each having an average of 96.

ELM Hill Council of the Columbus Club League will be given an opportunity to get back into the running tonight when it meets Mt. Pleasant at the club alleys in Dorchester. Elm Hill was forced out of the lead by Fulton, the passed by the D. L. Mills team and led by the Club House quintet.

PATL Poehler is ready to talk business with the strongest team as the latter posts a forfeit. Fallon is a member of the M. C. O. C. League and recently challenged Poehler.

THE proposed match between Harry Coburn and Harry Howard will not come off till after Christmas at the very earliest. Howard is too tied up in business affairs to even consider a match just now.

O. D. M'Laughlin Lost to B. A. A. Fencers

The B. A. A. fencing team will be without the services of O. D. McLaughlin this season and his loss will be severely felt. McLoughlin is one of the leading fencers in this country.

Dr. F. W. Allen and O. Schenck, the two other members of the B. A. A. team, will be in action, and for McLaughlin's place it looks as though either F. S. Curtis or John Rae Gilman, the last named being secretary of the New England division this year, would get it, although G. B. Wilbur is a very good fencer.

MICHIGAN ELEVEN IS LIKELY TO CAUSE TROUBLE NEXT SEASON

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 3.—Harry Hartsford, a senior, Hugh Hollowell, a junior, and Mullally, a sophomore, will be the quarterback candidates for the Michigan football team next season. The latter two had charge of the team in the last two games of the season, Hollowell having been injured in the Cornell game. The latter showed up very well but Hollowell, at the time, was considered the better of the two. At present Hollowell is in the lead, but Mullally is pressing him hard. Hartsford is out of the running, as he will not be in college next year.

Hollowell is a veteran, having played in the Varsity backfield for two years. Mullally has been playing on the second team for two years, and is expected to develop into a star. Hartsford has been playing football for the Maize and Blue team since that of 1915.

This record seems to show that the Michigan defence this year was weak and that its offensive strength was great. Which is just about the situation. Michigan's offensive strength however, was made up very largely of a fellow named Maulbetsch.

The whirlwind halfback scored about half of Michigan's points, and by his great plunges carried the ball to points where the other players could take it over.

Maulbetsch proved himself to be the greatest single scoring power that Michigan has had since Willie Heston quit footballing.

Michigan's 1915 outlook is extremely rosy. The Wolverines lose only three regulars through graduation.

MAHAN HARVARD FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

Edward W. Mahan, Harvard's wonderful All America halfback, will lead the Crimson eleven in 1915.

He was elected captain today at a meeting of all the football men who won their H in the past season.

His election, as expected, was virtually unanimous, as no real opposition to him on this day developed. Of the 27 votes who were eligible to vote, 25 were taken, and it is said that these were all Parson cast a ballot for Mahan, receiving a flight vote and Mahan the rest.

The election was then made unanimous.

Next season will be Mahan's third year as regular back on the Harvard varsity.

Mr. Mahan's association with characteristic modesty refused to have anything to say about his new honor, except to remark that he was very proud of it and would do his best to keep up the victorious record that has marked Harvard football since Haughton took charge.

The new Harvard captain, who is twenty-three years old and a junior, is a resident of Natick and has been a big figure in athletics since his high school days.

At Natick High he starred on the football, baseball and track teams and was especially sought by leading prep schools on graduation. He finally selected Andover and for two years was the best athlete in the school, as a sprinter on the track team, a back on the eleven and an outfielder on the baseball team.

Entering Harvard after practically every big college in the country had tried to persuade him otherwise, he continued to rise rapidly in athletic importance with the Harvard football team, of which he was captain, inside it a certainty that he would make the varsity last year without the least trouble. He did and was one of the stars of the great eleven, despite his newness to the college end of the game.

Last Spring he went out for the baseball team, and after easily earning a place as a regular either in the outfield or infield, was suddenly converted into a pitcher.

A GOOD PITCHER.

He made good on the mound with a team and toward the latter part of the season was looked on as one of the best of the collegiate twirlers. His only weakness was a tendency to wild it but he was rapidly getting control when the year ended. Next Spring he promises to be a great all-round pitcher.

In the mid football season, as has ridden, which was pulled while he was a burdler at Andover, bothered him considerably and kept him out of many of the earlier games, but the injury was not very apparent in either the Princeton or Yale battles, as the members of Harvard's big rivals ran very well testify.

With Brickley out of the game Mahan rapidly came into prominence as a drop kicker, and in both the big games helped the Crimson score by his accurate boots.

On the track he formerly starred as a hurdler and a sprinter and was up with the best in either branch. Last Spring at Harvard he was not permitted by the football authorities to try the running game, but he did do a little work as a broad jumper and showed sufficient ability to warrant his winning a place at the intercollegiates after he masters the knack of the sport.

Mahan has not yet decided what he will do after leaving college, though the chances are he will make use of his unusual knowledge of athletics for a couple of years and pick off some coaching sinecure.

'YOUNG' SHUGRUE DEFEATS WELSH

NEW YORK, Dec 3.—Freddie Welsh defended his title as lightweight champion of the world against Joe "Young" Shugrue of Jersey City at Madison Square Garden last night. Shugrue was the aggressor, but was unable to inflict much damage on the clever Englishman.

Welsh, who has fought two or three battles every month, was on the defensive owing to his after effects. He was unwilling to carry the fight to his heavier and youthful opponent.

The Briton came up strong and in after round during the ten sessions his ability to withstand the punishment giving him considerable. Neither man scored a knockdown, but Shugrue was driven to the ropes.

The 8000 fans present favored Shugrue, and the decision was met with cheers each time he landed the champion. There were numerous clinches, and the referee dismissed Welsh forthwith at the ending.

The popular opinion was that Shugrue won on a wide margin on his aggressiveness.

Between Rounds

By RINGSIDE.

In these stringent times it behooves fighters to hoard every dollar they earn in the ring. The Gibbons brothers realize this, and they have decided means to keep all their earnings in the family. So Mike has decided to be the manager of Tom, and Tommy to take care of the business affairs of Mike.

Manager Tom Gibbons is right now busily engaged in trying to get a match for Brother Mike. The impresario is afraid to take on the Boston fighter for ten rounds out in the Middle West tomorrow night. After the fight Manager Mike will try to get a match for Brother Tom.

Public demand is forcing Bill Williams into a bout with Eddie O'Keefe in Philadelphia. The bantamweight champion has carefully avoided tackling the Quakerite, at the request of his manager, Sammy Harris. The latter was handed a blessing by O'Keefe several months ago, and has vengeance for somebody in permitting O'Keefe to lose a lot of money by boxing Williams. However, he has capitulated and will try to sign Williams with O'Keefe.

Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion, who has outgrown his division, will run up against Johnny Mandot for ten rounds at Akron next Monday night. It will be Kilbane's first battle in the lightweight class.

Jack Dillon has authorized the statement that he is to fight Mike Gibbons in Philadelphia on the seventh of December 14. They will meet at catchweights for six rounds.

Bombardier Wells is making frantic efforts to evade enlistment in the British army. Evidently Wells has been informed of the fine crop of unemployed "White Hopes" in this country. Bombardier thinks it is much safer to fight in the ring than in front of a howitzer.

Leach Cross does not know what it is to be idle. His two reversals at the hands of Gilbert Gallant have failed to detract from his drawing powers, and he has been matched to fight Phil Bloom at the Brooklyn Sporting Club in New York next Tuesday night. It will be their second meeting.

While the last couple of weeks have been busy ones for Irwin, the trials of handling an baseball team in Newark, it seems, I had a great deal of pleasure in store for him. Only a year ago Mr. Lobert was among those present at the meeting of the International League when Irwin was elected president of the league, and the latter was heard the first time in baseball circles in many years. Irwin was at that time a member of the Boston Braves baseball club, and was one of the owners who might be induced to sell his interest in the club for a cash consideration.

Hare Quits as Head of Penn Football

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Percy Hare, for the past two years head football, player and all-around athlete at the University of Pennsylvania, has resigned as head coach of football at the university, it was announced today. PROSPERITY NEAR, SAYS FEDERATION

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—After receiving reports from more than 800 correspondents, including Governors, Mayors, officials of national banks, savings banks, building and loan associations, union and industrial associations of every description, the National Civic Federation has prepared a report on business throughout the United States saying that conditions are improving and predicting that a further advance toward prosperity will be witnessed during the next few months.

The Federation's report was prepared by John Hays Hammond, who was chairman of the committees which handled the investigation.

The Federation's report states that next to the charity organizations the "railroads are the most important," and insist that the increasing of freight rates "would do more for the prosperity of the country than the ending of the European war."

Because of the railroad situation, the iron, steel and electrical trades and equipment companies, which either depend directly upon the railroads or take their cue from railroad activity, are found to be very quiet.

"It is evident that financial relief has been a large factor in setting the wheels of industry moving," continues the report, "and the daily large number of letters emphasize the service which the opening of the federal reserve banks is expected to afford. Not only do bankers make this point. Manufacturers and a goodly array of even more impressed with benefits to be expected from these new institutions.

"The great savings institutions of New York city report that business is now altogether normal. In Philadelphia and even in Pittsburgh, despite the severity of the depression in the iron and steel trade, the deposits of the largest savings banks have during the last months exceeded withdrawals.

"Certain lines of trade have been stimulated because of orders placed by foreign nations, but the purchase of supplies by belligerent nations satisfies but a slight fraction of the American business world," the report states. An unequalled period of prosperity is predicted for manufacturers of commercial motor vehicles, who up to November 20, exported $10,000,000 worth.

Plan Cheap Homes for Salem Victims

The problem of providing cheap living places for those affected by Salem's fire may be solved by the building of a four-story apartment houses in the "Point" district, rents of which will not run over $15 a month. The relief committee reports that 135 families, comprising 521 individuals, are still being supplied with food.

Guard Whitman From Gunmen

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Police Commissioner Woods has appointed a posse of detectives to guard Governor-elect Whitman against any attack from gunmen.

What is said to have prompted the act was the report that at a Socialist meeting in Madison square one of the speakers pointed at the apartment house where Mr. Whitman lives and said:

"We want personal liberty and we'll get it if we have to use force. Some day I'll get a gun and try to drive the gangsters out of New York. You don't know what he may get a bomb for Christmas."

When a reporter called at the Whitman apartments late last night to verify the report which emanated from police headquarters that every movement of the next Governor was watched by central office men or policemen in plain clothes were found stationed at the two entrances of the building.

Just then Mr. Whitman emerged from the elevator and hurried to his automobile. He waved away all inquiries with a hasty gesture and with Mrs. Whitman on his arm entered the limousine. Simultaneously one of his guards jumped up on the seat with the chauffeur and the other followed in a taxicab.

SEES $500,000,000 GAIN IN COMMERCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—That one year of the war in Europe will add $500,000,000 to the foreign commerce of the United States is the estimate of Holland de Bree, chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Mr. Pratt has just completed a study of the reports of America's consular and commercial representatives abroad, of agents of foreign banks in this country and of the new orders for American manufactures and products reported in commercial periodicals.

If the ratio of increase recorded since August, when the war began, is maintained until August, 1915, he estimates that new orders placed on the basis of American firms will total half a billion dollars.

As specific data upon which to base his estimate Mr. Pratt has the export of J. Massel, special commercial agent now on route to South America to study the export trade market there and prepare a review of the needs of South American countries which will be made available to American manufacturers. He visited virtually every large manufacturing plant in the United States and estimated that the machine tool manufacturing establishments have from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in new orders from European countries now on their books. One big plant, he said, has enough work ahead of it to keep its full force employed overtime to meet the demands of the next two years. Several concerns already are preparing to increase their facilities to meet the larger demands arising from the war.

The first country among the belligerents to seek the American machine tool supply is Russia. England and France now have joined in seeking American tools, and it is indicated that the present supply cannot meet the demands.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The automobile department of the Massachusetts Highway Commission is pretty busy these days receiving registration applications for 1915. In compliance with the custom of previous years the commission will this week assign a registration number below the number 5,000 to those who hold the same at present and who make written application for the reassignment of the same number for 1915.

This policy has brought forth a large number of applications for these numbers and it is estimated that 90 per cent. of the persons now displaying numbers below the 5,000 mark have requested that the same number be assigned them for the coming year.

The fears of American crude rubber importers that the British embargo upon rubber from the Far East would seriously interfere with the manufacture of automobile tires and other rubber goods in this country appear to have been premature. Advices received this week state that arrangements have already been made with Dutch growers and exporters to ship rubber directly to New York from Sumatra and the other Dutch East Indies. This will obviate the necessity of submitting the product to the control of the British military authorities, as heretofore, when rubber was shipped via London.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN BOSTON DECEMBER 3, 1914

BOSTON AMERICAN
80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, DEC. 3, 1914.

At Last the City Has an Electric Lighting Contract of the Right Kind

At LAST the proposed electric lighting contract between the city of Boston and the Edison Illuminating Company is acceptable to the honest citizens of Boston who are willing neither to drive a hard bargain with any public service corporation nor to allow the city to be robbed.

The contest which the AMERICAN has made against the very bad contract that Mayor Curley and Mr. John A. Sullivan first proposed with the Lighting Company, has ended in a complete triumph for the people of Boston and for the right minded members of the City Council who agreed with the AMERICAN that the first contract did not sufficiently protect the city.

The contract which the Electric Light Company is NOW willing to accept and the one sprung upon the city last Spring differ as much as any good proposition can differ from a very bad one.

The price under the proposed contract, as now perfected, will be determined by the Gas and Electric Light Commission IMMEDIATELY, and it shall not be more than $87.50 per lamp AND MAY BE VERY MUCH LESS. Under the perfected contract, the city may appeal to the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners at the end of five years for another review of the price, so that the city may thus obtain the advantage of any improvements in the art of electric lighting and in the reduced cost of producing electricity. Invention is making the cost of producing electric light less and less every day. Therefore this provision, together with the further provision that the city shall have the benefit of three-fourths of any such improvements in electric lighting, is a vast advance over the old proposal which the AMERICAN so vigorously fought.

Mr. John A. Sullivan, Corporation Counsel of Boston, who aided and abetted the Mayor's attempt to force through the City Council the first contract, with all its imperfect provisions, has made a statement concerning the improvements in the new draft of the contract which is interesting, not because anything Mr. Sullivan says may be accepted without investigation, but because in this case it is a confession of his own failure to protect the city's interest in drafting the first contract and is, therefore, not likely to over-state the difference between the first and the present contract.

Mr. Sullivan says:

1. The contract has been entirely redrafted and put in better order; and many phrases which appeared ambiguous have been changed so as to make the meaning clear.

2. The first contract provided a deduction for outages of 1 cent per hour per incandescent lamp, and 5 cents per hour per arc lamp; the present contract provides for a deduction of 1 cent per hour for lamps of 100 candlepower or less, and 5 cents per hour for all other lamps. This gives the right to deduct 5 cents per hour for all incandescent lamps of 100 candlepower or more, or 4 cents per hour more for such lamps than the first contract provided.

3. In the first contract there was no provision for the manner in which the candlepower should be measured; this has been remedied in the present contract by a provision that the candlepower of Incandescent lamps shall be measured in terms of mean horizontal values, and that of all arc lamps in that of mean lower hemispherical values.

4. The first contract provided that the contract should run on after the expiration of the ten-year period until one year after the date when the city or the company should give notice of its election to terminate the agreement; the present contract provides that the contract shall run for only 60 days after such notice of termination.

5. The first contract fixed the prices according to Schedule E; the present contract provides for compulsory arbitration at the outset by the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners with the right in such commissioners to fix lower prices than those named in Schedule E, but not to fix higher prices.

6. The first contract provided for no arbitration as to the contract price after the first arbitration by the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners; the present contract provides for another arbitration by said board at the end of five years, the prices to be fixed either lower or higher according to the commissioners' decision.

7. The first contract provided that the city should get two-thirds of the benefit of any general reduction in the cost to the company, including depreciation and interest on investment, of supplying the service; the present contract gives the city three-fourths and the company one-fourth of the benefit of such reduction.

8. The first contract provided for arbitration in the event of the city and the company failing to agree as to what the reduction in the cost of service was, the arbitration board to consist of the head professor of applied electricity of the Institute of Technology and the head professor of applied electricity of the scientific department of Harvard University, and in case of disagreement between them, they had a right to call in an arbitrator of their own selection; the present contract provides a different board of arbitration, viz:—one person selected by the company, one by the city, and a third by the two first chosen.

9. The first contract provided that the tests of the electrical current and apparatus employed in furnishing the service should be made by an expert chosen by the Edison Company after a request by the city that such tests be made; the present contract provides that the city may at any time without the company's knowledge employ a competent person to make such tests.

10. The first contract provided for a substitution of lamps on the request of the city if the candlepower of the substituted lamps should not be less than that of the lamps displaced; the present contract provides for such substitution if the candlepower is not SUBSTANTIALLY less. The language of the substitution clause has also been improved in favor of the city so as to remove certain doubts arising from the language in the first contract.

11. The first contract did not provide that the company should give the city a statement of the cost of furnishing the service so as to enable the city to ascertain the reduction in the cost of service and claim its proper share of said reduction. The present contract provides that the company shall furnish to the city on the demand of the Commissioner of Public Works once each year a statement of the cost of furnishing the service, including depreciation and interest on the investment, and that the statement shall be in such form and detail as the Commissioner of Public Works shall prescribe.

Messrs. Coulthurst, Kenny, Coleman, Collins and Watson of the City Council deserve the praise of all citizens who admire honest and intelligent guardians of the public interest. Mr. John A. Coulthurst especially distinguished himself for his leadership in this contest, which will save the city thousands and perhaps hundreds of thousands of dollars and will set a precedent for all the cities and towns of the State.

Ostrich eaten instead of turkey in Chicago. Presumably instead of sage and onion stuffing they'll use nails and tin cans.

New Brunswick man claims pie championship because he ate 5,000 pies in four months. Sounds impressive at first, but when worked out it's only a beggarly forty pies a day.

"Taxi figuring largely in war." Don't think it figures as largely as when we're in it watching the clock.

Our adventure at Vera Cruz might be described as a return ticket occupation. Let us hope General Funston won't have to become a commuter.

A murder in New York costs as little as $25. And it costs a nation more than a thousand dollars to kill one of the enemy's soldiers. Peace hath her economies.

"Give a Basket" and Help the AMERICAN'S Christmas Fund

Checks should be made payable to the Boston American. All contributions will be acknowledged in the AMERICAN.

Contributions of clothing, books, toys and baskets or contributions of food should be sent to the Christmas Basket Department, Boston American, No. 5 Winthrop Square, Boston.

Do Battles Provoke Storms?

What Is the Effect of the Shock of Cannonading and the Introduction of Smoky Gases Into the Atmosphere Over a Great Battlefield?

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

DO rain and thunderstorms commonly follow great battles?

This old, but always interesting, question is asked again, now that the world is expectantly listening for the roar of the greatest battles in all its history.

The scientific answer is in the negative, because there is not on record a sufficient number of observations concerning the character of the weather after battles to warrant definite conclusions, and also because such observations as do exist were not made in a scientific manner. The verdict is "not proved."

But it is within the range of possibility that a systematic investigation would show that great battles DO affect the atmosphere in such a way as to produce local weather changes of a more or less pronounced character.

There are two things which might be supposed to have a special tendency in that direction; first, the long continued and violent agitation of the air by discharges of artillery, musketry and rapid-fire guns, and second, the introduction into the atmosphere of great quantities of smoke, dust and gases from the guns and the bursting shells.

Air May Become Charged

It is well known that atmospheric moisture condenses about minute particles floating in the air, and such particles also play an important part in the electric phenomena of the atmosphere. This being so, the air over the battlefield may become charged not only with condensed watery vapor but with electricity to such a degree as to bring about either a quiet downfall of rain or a thunder shower.

For a considerable number of years in the wine-growing districts of France, where thunderstorms are frequently accompanied by destructive volleys of hail, hundreds of so-called "hail-cannon" have been systematically employed in bombarding the sky whenever threatening clouds appear in order to prevent the formation of the dreaded hail. While scientific investigators have generally pronounced this system of defence against hail theoretically ineffective, thousands of wine-growers have expressed great confidence in it and have continued to use it.

They say that the shocks and the atmospheric whirls produced by the discharge of the "hail-cannon" cause the moisture of the clouds to fall in fine rain instead of accumulating in bulky hailstones.

"Hail-Cannon" and Rain

If the effect ascribed to the "hail-cannon" could be regarded as established, it would be an easy step to believe that in a great battle, where the atmospheric vibrations must be incomparably more powerful and widespread, a still greater effect of a similar kind may be produced. The electric disturbance produced by a battle may be enormous.

Still there are contradictory and puzzling circumstances. The alleged effect of the "hail-cannon" is immediate; that of the thunders of the battlefield is remote, following hours after the shock has passed. It is not affirmed that the "hail-cannon" can produce rain out of a clear sky; but that is exactly what the cannonading of contending armies is believed by some to be able to do.

Since neither of these popular beliefs is accepted by scientific authorities, the general public must take such evidence as it can get and judge for itself. Science does not say that these things are impossible; it only says that they are improbable.

I HEARD you laugh
Out in the crowded way,
And lo, a weary woman stopped to smile.
A newsboy sold a dozen papers, while
A straying sunbeam touched your cheek in play.
I heard you laugh.

I heard you laugh.
'Twas in a darkened room
Where pain had made the hours seem drear and long;
And lo, the sickroom echoed with a song,
A breath of Spring that lightened all the gloom.
I heard you laugh.
